Answer: Substance Dualism claims that there are two _____, one is the brain, the other the _____. The first is _____ and the other is non-physical. They exist _____ of each other, but they _____.

Substances

Independently

Physical

Interact

Mind

2

Question: Give a few examples below, to illustrate the difference between Substances and Properties (one example has already been given)

	Substance	Property
1.	An Apple	The redness of an apple
2.
3.

3

Question: To define Property Dualism, fill in the blanks:

Answer: Property Dualism claims that there is only one _____ and that is the _____. The _____ is a property of the _____, and _____ upon it.

Mental

Substance

Brain

Brain

Dependent

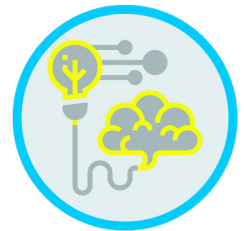

4

Question: Define the following terms:

Extended

Unextended

The Conceivability Argument

5

Question: Fill in the blanks in the argument:

Claim 1

If my _____ and _____ were the _____ thing, then I wouldn't be able to _____ of them existing separately

Claim 2

I can _____ of my _____ existing without my _____

Conclusion

Therefore, my _____ and _____ are _____ things
(Substance Dualism is true)

6

Question: Explain how Descartes justifies Claim 1:

Hint: Use Leibniz's Law

7

Question: To justify Claim 2, Descartes first shows that the world could not exist through the Method of Doubt. Describe each stage:

Conclusion

8

Question: Descartes thinks, despite this, that he can prove that his mind exists. What is the English version of the quote:

Cogito Ergo Sum

9

Question: Is The Conceivability Argument successful? Why?

Criticisms of Dualism

The Problems of Interaction

10

Question: According to Princess Elisabeth, what do physical things require in order to interact with each other?

☐ Energy

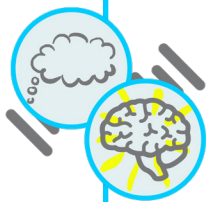

☐ Sides

☐ Motion

11

Question: According to Princess Elisabeth, why can't the mind interact with the brain?

12

Question: According to Jaegwon Kim, what allows two things to pair?

☐ The pineal gland

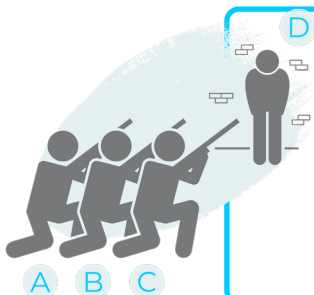

☐ Causation

☐ Sides

☐ A spacelike structure

13

Question: Can you briefly describe Kim's reason for believing this?

14

Question: Here is a brief summary of Kim's argument. Can you fill in the missing claim?

Claim 1

According to Substance Dualism, the mind is non-physical and cannot exist in a spatial location

Claim 2

Conclusion

Therefore, according to Substance Dualism, the Mind would not be able to pair with a particular Brain

The Problem of Other Minds

15

Question: To define introspection, can you fill in the missing gaps?

Answer: Introspection is a way of _____ where we don't examine the world through the _____ but instead look _____ and examine our own _____.

Knowing

Thoughts

Inwards

Senses

16

Question: Here is a summary of the Problem of Other Minds. Can you fill in the missing claim?

Claim 1

According to Substance Dualism, we can only know that our own mind exists through introspection

Claim 2

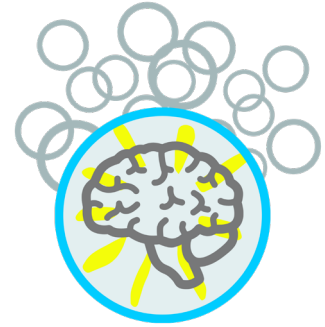

Conclusion

Therefore, if Substance Dualism were true, we would not be able to know that any other minds exist

17

Question: What is J.S. Mill's response to the Problem of Other Minds?

Property Dualism

18

Question: To define Property Dualism, fill in the blanks:

Answer: Property Dualism is the belief that the _____ is a _____, and that _____ are non-physical _____ of the brain.

Substance

Events

Mental

Brain

Properties

19

Question: Property Dualists call Mental Events “Qualia”. Which best describes Qualia:

Objective Reality

Subjective Experiences

The Non-Physical Mind

20

Question: To define The Hard Problem of Consciousness, fill in the blanks:

Answer: The Hard Problem of Consciousness says that you can _____ the _____ physical nature of something _____ describing the _____ and so the _____ must be _____

Qualia

Subjective

Describe

Non-Physical

Without

Qualia

Fully

Objective
